

FULL SNOW MOON

The bombers fly so close you feel their engines
In your chest though none can say
Where they're headed or why

On the lake near my house boys dare each other Onto the frozen surface
The smallest brings the enormous weight of his fear
He drags it like a shadow

by Melissa Tuckey